It will do just about relatively routine function that is required of a finance professional on a daily basis. It is intended for people in the finance industry and, if you're not in the industry, a student or a collector, don't buy this. This calculator is not produced by HewlettPackard anymore but its particular presentation folder makes it an interesting choice if you are a collector. You can find on eBay 3 different models of this financial calculator. I would recommend the last model if you intend to use it extensively as the side battery door model is very fragile and it will be hard for you to find one in good condition on eBay. The difference between the 19B and 19BII model is the ability for the 19BII to manage the RPN mode Reverse Polish Notation well known by HP calculators aficionados. The calculator is shaped like a little notebook and opens up. On the left is a keypad with letters and numbers for the address book, calendar, etc. On the right is a screen and the keys required to use the functions. Interestingly, at the top is a series of six blank keys described later. The 19B will do just about anything you ask of it. The 340 page plus manual is clearly written and has many examples. A sample of the functions. What is neat about the 19B is that a little menu will pop up when you want to solve for many variables. That is what the little blank keys are for at the top. You are given a choice of several different functions. Say you want to do bonds. Key in the type semi annual, annual, etc. then another little menu comes up, and you put in the appropriate value settlement and maturity dates, call value, yield, price and it will solve for the remaining variable. Very cool.

Find a formula you use on a regular basis. You set up the formula, set up the menus, and you can recall this formula whenever you want to with the calculator solving for the remaining variable. The left side keys permit you to use this as a date and appointment book and to store many business lists such as names and addresses, or use it for your expense account, etc. You may print information from this using an HP82240 Infrared Printer, including not just your address lists, but an amortization table as well. You can switch back and forth from Reverse Polish Notation and algebraic functionality HP19BII only. With all this functionality, one would think this would be the calculator of choice for finance professionals but others could think that it is too big too large to shove in the front pants pocket, redundant with a PDA or a PC or too heavy but rock solid, except for the door. The HP 19B requires three Nsize alkaline batteries to work. Two keyboards, many functions, programmable, comes with clock, alarm, calendar, agenda. The model with battery door on the back side is the best. The other with that door on the top corner tends to break because of the strong coils inside that force the battery against the door breaking the calculator around the door and it cannot the batteries firm inside the calculator. The other problem is the N type batteries that are more expensive than aaa and CRxxxx batteries. But those who have and use them do not change them by HP 12c or other models. They have a very precise keyboard and are very reliable! It worked beautifully for that. However, it has a legendary battery door problem that causes it to chip off and render the calculator useless. I really wish HP would update this great calculator with modern materials and a better screen. To avoid this problem you need to look for the model with the rear battery door. DO NOT get the one with the battery door on the side of the unit.

Also carry spare batteries so you don't get stranded without power. J Maloney Its a shame Hp did not continue with this line. All Rights Reserved. I know it is not an easy task going over so much content in a short amount of time. I look forward to future learning sessions and continuing my knowledge of the Clarity PPM tool. I don't think I've ever been more impressed with consultants that I've worked with in over 30 years in IT! A huge thanks to you both for your help and guidance. In 40 years of working with other companies and consultants, this has been one of the most positive and constructive working arrangements I've had. Your demonstration, day in and day out, of your genuine interest in our success has been welcome and much appreciated. Thank you! It's been a true pleasure working with you! I can't say enough about Rego. Everyone from our executives to our team members are aligned and having success in the tool because of them. We are receiving tremendous support from Rego on a need basis. Thanks for all your support and contributions thus far. We look forward to work with you in the future too. Thanks. We are extremely pleased with our services from Rego Consulting, they assisted us with upgrades, trained us on numerous modules and reporting one being Jaspersoft. Rego is our go to for small or large initiatives on our PMO roadmap. Screens that took more than 2030 sec to show up now take very few sec 24 sec.

This is awesome and dramatically impacts the user experience. Ramesh solved our problem this morning and it is a big relief. His knowledge and your stepping up reflects the expertise and professionalism we have experience with Rego over these many years. Rego University is an outstanding conference in every way! I attended Rego University for the following I can check off all three items. Rego has provided responsive, qualified Clarity PPM consulting help to us for a number of things both big and small over the last year. They are reasonably priced and are experts in their field. I only wish we would have known about them sooner! This was my first year at RegoU after running Clarity for 18 months. Since I am the only person with Rego's outstanding help running the PPM at my company, I needed both Functional and Technical classes. I was able to attend both and learned many things to take back to my organization. The level of knowledge of all the presenters was very high, and even for subjects that I felt well versed in, I learned new ways of thinking about how it could better fit my team, as well as new tips. Each class was useful and had people attending at every experience level from beginner to seasoned pro, and it was clearly of benefit to all levels. I plan to attend RegoU every year if at all possible. Truly a class act! RegoU is simply the most informative conference on all aspects of the Clarity solution. A must attend for everyone from the early adopting team to the most experienced users. The information you provided us in the Executive Summary and other supporting documents achieved our goals. The rapid uptake of the tool would not have occurred without Rego's assistance in helping us customize the tool, understand our data gaps, and automate its features. We look forward to utilizing the tool further with the help of Rego's expertise. Rego consultants have a great degree of knowledge and expertise with Clarity.

They were able to quickly understand the nuances of our implementation and plan and execute the steps necessary to perform the upgrade with minimum disruption to users. While there may be a small team performing the work they are able to leverage the knowledge of the entire organization to solve problems along the way. Rego assists us with integrations, upgrades and other various items as needed. The quality of resources Rego has hired fits our needs and we will continue to use Rego as our PPM partner. Resources we had assigned to us were very knowledgeable, responsive and helpful. We had numerous sessions which they attended to help us thru our upgrade activities across each of our environments culminating with our product deployment over the course of a Saturday.

Any issues that were identified, were reviewed and resolved in a timely manner and communication was good throughout the process. Impressed with the POV, they knew this space very well, allowed us to do ITSM and PPM at the same time two partners. Built a whole portfolio management charter with Rego as part of the contract process. It is clear that the Rego team members are great friends—like family, makes me feel good to be around people who care about each other. Wish we could do events as well as this.
